

HANSEN LECTURE SERIES: "PEACE ON FRONTLINES"

RELIGION, POLITICS, & HUMAN RIGHTS

In 2016, the Colombian government arrived at a peace agreement with the largest and oldest insurgency army in the Western Hemisphere, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia. After 60 years of war, Colombian society is forging toward a new horizon of peace with justice for all, with reparations for victims, and a renewed commitment to human rights and the empowerment of civil society.

This talk will focus on the front lines of coalition-based peacebuilding, with a focus on the importance of inter-religious, human rights-based advocacy and strategic political engagement.
